Endorsement notice

The text of ISO 9241-303:2011 has been approved by CEN as a EN ISO 9241-303:2011 without any modification.

Introduction

This part of ISO 9241 addresses a large range of technologies, tasks and environments.

ISO 9241 was originally developed as a seventeen-part International Standard on the ergonomics requirements for office work with visual display terminals. As part of the standards review process, a major restructuring of ISO 9241 was agreed to broaden its scope, to incorporate other relevant standards and to make it more usable. The general title of the revised ISO 9241, “Ergonomics of human-system interaction”, reflects these changes and aligns the standard with the overall title and scope of Technical Committee ISO/TC 159, Subcommittee SC 4. The revised multipart standard is structured as series of standards numbered in the “hundreds”: the 100 series deals with software interfaces, the 200 series with human-centred design, the 300 series with visual displays, the 400 series with physical input devices, and so on.

See Annex A for an overview of the entire ISO 9241 series.

Ergonomics of human-system interaction —

Part 303: Requirements for electronic visual displays

1 Scope

This part of ISO 9241 establishes image-quality requirements, as well as providing guidelines, for electronic visual displays. These are given in the form of generic — independent of technology, task and environment — performance specifications and recommendations that will ensure effective and comfortable viewing conditions for users with normal or adjusted-to-normal eyesight.

This part of ISO 9241 does not address issues of accessibility for people with disabilities. However, it does take into account aspects of the eyesight of older people and could be of value to people dealing with issues of visual impairment in certain cases: the specification of essential characteristics for normal viewing can be used to gauge the severity of different visual abnormalities so that appropriate solutions can be identified.

NOTE In addition to the Bibliography, Annex F gives a selected bibliography of documents addressing the needs of people with disabilities, including people with poor, deteriorating or no eyesight.

3 Terms and definitions

For the purpose of this document, the terms and definitions given in ISO 9241-302 apply.

4 Guiding principles

For a satisfying human–display interaction, a number of different requirements have to be met at the same time in an appropriate balance. For the purposes of this part of ISO 9241, these requirements have been grouped into the following eight major areas:

- viewing conditions;
- luminance;
- special physical environments;
